The Goodrich Mystery Solved.

Kate Stoddard Confesses the Deed. Full Particulars of the Murder. NEW YORK, July 11 .- The death of Charles Goodrich is no longer a mystery. He was shot by Minnie Waltham, alias Kate Stoddard, on the night of the 21st of March. Being arrested on Tuesday last,

Made a Full Confession of her guilt to the police authorities of Brooklyn. Search for the murderer has been unremitting. Not only has Brooklyn been searched, but New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Washington, and a countless number of smaller places. The primary object of the search was the woman Stoddard, but so little was known about her personally, that at the commencement there was next to nothing to work upon. The photograph obtained represented Kate as a pleasant looking blonde of 30, with moderately full face, sparkling eyes, lightsome expression and buoyant manner, while Kate Stoddard, as arrested, was Thin and Emaciated.

Only one person who knew her positively could be found-Miss Mary Handley-but for more than six weeks after the murder that person was laid up in bed, silk. Kate Stoddard was met by Mies Handley in the street on Tuesday last. Miss Handley was going to New York, and Kate Stoddard was evidently coming from it, when the meeting by accident took place. As soon as she met her, Miss Handley recognized her and followered her until she met a police officer, whom she induced to make the arrest. It became of the first importance to find where she had come from. This she declined to tell. Brooklyn was searched for a house whence a weman had been missing since Tuesday morning. This resulted in the discovery that in a house in High street, between Jay and Bridge, such a woman had been missing. The woman who kept the house was taken to the station house and identified her as her boarder, and had been living there since April. Her trunks were seized and opened, and in them was discovered property of Goodrich, including a watch and chain, and a fingerring, a seal, and a pocket-book with $40 in bills, believed to be
